"The shaft is an incline, but not sunk on a true line. Its course distantly resembles the letter S. Buckets are used. No cage. Men and ore are hoisted 800 feet in buckets, up an incline that is not a shaft, and a shaft that is not an incline. The wall plates and other timbers were old, hence rotten; the ground was wet, soggy, loose, hence the ground was wet, soggy, loose, hence

"It is feared that the boilers and hoist will leak, as there was a big cavein underneath them four years ago, and they are standing on dangerous ground."

LOWER MAMMOTH ORES.

Director Bamberger Tells of the Material Exposed on 700-Level. After a day underground at the Lower Mammoth, Simon Bamberger was again at his desk yesterday. In the drift running south on the 700 level, feet of ore in the five-foot vein, from which an average sample, taken by himself, gave returns of seventy-nine ounces silver, 80c in gold and 1.5 per cent copper per ton. Another sample, taken to learn the contents of a certain character of the ore, went ninety-three character of the ore, went ninety-three ounces silver and 21.5 per cent copper. Still another sample, taken from the roof of the drift at the face, ran 130 ounces, $1 in gold and 6.5 per cent fopper. Then, just to show the boys at the mine that he really knew the difference between poor and rich ore, Mr. Ramberger tool; a sample, the returns Bamberger took a sample, the returns from which gave 551 ounces silver and from which gave sal ounces silver and $1.83 in gold.

That the company could begin shipping at any time, Mr. Bamberger laid, was really true, but the management has determined not to break a pound of ore more than is absolutely necessary in prosecuting development work until connections with the vein have been made on the 800 level. That point will have been reached today or tomorwill have been reached today or tomorrow, and as soon as a station is cut drifting will begin on the ninety feet of territory to be craversed to reach a point beneath where the ore makes above. To continue the drift on the 700 and work out from the bottom of the shaft at the same time taxes the hoisting capacity of the machinery to such an extent that if ore was to be taken out for shipment now, the other work would necessarily be retarded.

Everything looks bright for the future of the property, and the executive committee managing its affairs are to be congratulated on the good work they be congratulated on the good work they

NO STRIKE IN AJAX.

Manager Weir Says Ore Bodies Are Some Distance Ahead.

The rapid advance which Ajax stock has made during the past two or three days has given rise to the story that ore had been encountered on the 1,000foot level. This, Manager Weir, who was at the mine on Tuesday, says is a mistake. He has been careful not to give out anything which might tend to influence the price of shares in the company, as by declares it is yet too early to even predict what may be company, as by declares it is yet too early to even predict what may be found on the 1,000 level. Work is being pushed, and if a strike is to be made he thinks it will come, probably, about one month hence. No ore has yet made its appearance, however, and all reports to that effect are misleading.

At the Grand Central, he says, the men working on ore in disputed terratory have been laid off, but prospecting and development work in other par-and development work in other por-tions of the mine, he understands, is still progressing, and experts are also at work preparing data for the approaching trial.

3.000-OUNCE SILVER ORE.

That Is the Kind of Rock Found In the Bullion-Beck.

A E. Hyde, one of the directors of the Bullion-Beck company, has just returned from the mine, and as an illusconsistency of the character of lock being encountered in the Muldoon workings. The was yesterday exhibiting a slug of pure silver that was obtained by melting down one pound of ore. It weighed one and a half ounces, or the equivalent of 3.000 ounces per ton. It was, of course, the product of a selected piece of ore, but Mr. Hyde said there was lots more of the same kind of stuff coming out of the shaft.

BLEW UP HIS MINE.

Creek to Face the Charges.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Nov., 14 .-Samuel Strong, a prominent Cripple Creek mining man, has arrived home from his European tour and announces his readiness to face the charges re-cently brought against him in connec-tion with the destructive explosion which occurred at the Strong mine in Victor six years ago. The Strong shaft house, ore house and machinery were blown up May 25, 1894. The explosion was one of the sensational incidents of the "Bull hill" war when the miners of Cripple Creek district were on strike and hundreds of deputy sheriffs were enlisted and armed in Denver to oppose the strikers.

Robert J. Lyons, Nicholas Kelly and several other miners were tried, convicted and sentenced to long terms in the penitentiary for the Strong mine that the mill had closed down, but no reason was assigned. The Times explains the shut-down, however, and why the story was not given out here is a mystery.

The paper says:

"About 4:45 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a great mass of rock broke loose somewhere above the No. 4 tunnel in the Lucky Boy mine at Custer, and shot, roaring, 600 feet down the shaft, gutting it of stulls and timbers as it went.

"Down at the loading station, on the eighth level, George Olson, station tender, had just loaded the bucket and rarg it up. The avalanche struck the sexending bucket somewhere about the sixth level, and, snapping the steel that loaded the bucket and rarg it up. The avalanche struck the sixth level, and, snapping the steel that loaded the property after the had sold it and that he expected that after the workings were destroyed by the explosion the purchasers would fail to pay the balance due and the property would revert to him.

RED WING DEVELOPMENTS.

neath twenty feet of earth poor Olson lay solidly embedded, his young life spuffer out like a candle.

The wonder is that there were not more lives lost. Had the accident occurred one hour earlier fully twelve men would have been killed, as they were going on shift and would have been caught at the stations.

The Lucky Boy is an old mine, and the timbers above the 400 level have been in ten to twenty years. The rock has slackened or loosened, and the ground no longer affords a firm footing for the stull-heads. There is no ore in these levels, hence no reason why the timbers should be renewed. a much less distance.

The poor creatures huddle together in their miserable dwellings during the long winter and subsist on frozen insh and a little seal oil, which they secure on the coast during the summer. "The Nome district is the most populations in northern Alaska. The enumeration showed a permanent white population on June 1 of 6.704. During the summer about 18,000 people landed at Nome, about 2,500 of those coming from Dawson. About 12,500 have returned to their homes in the states, leaving about 9,600 people in the region contiguous to Nome. Is unlike all other electric and so-called electric belts and must not be confounded with them. It has soft, silken, chamoiscovered sponge water-chamber electrodes that cannot and will not burn, bifster, fry and almost cremate the patient, as do the bare metal electrodes used on all other makes of belts, which have bare metal electrodes used on all other makes of belts, which have bare metal electrodes upon which verdigris will accumulate. Verdigris is a deadly poison. My electrodes, my exclusive patent—used on no other beit or appliance, cost more alone to manufacture than the entire belt of other makes. My Electrical Suspensory for the perfect cure of Men's Atimenus free to each male patient. My Electric Belt can be renewed when burned out for only 15c; no other belt can be renewed for any price, and when burned out is worthless.

Some concerns try to imitate my electrodes by covering their bare metal discs with a thin veneering of chamois or felt through which a current cannot pass, but through which verdigris will soak. If you have purchased one of these imitations and it burns and blisters, or gives no current, or is burned out and cannot be renewed, or if you are afraid of verdigris, sent it to me as half payment of one of mine. I guarantee my Belt to last a lifetime and the current never diminish. Warranted four times stronger than any other belt.
